

Sooner or Later You'll Pay!

The city governments of Batavia, St. Charles and Geneva have decided they want to build, own and operate their own internet, telephone and cable TV service systems.

They believe that since they already operate their own electrical utility, they can provide reliable internet and telecommunications services as well.

But Here's the Trap Waiting
For You...

If they don't immediately sign up 1/3 of all businesses and households, they'll have to increase your property taxes to pay the tab – $62 million worth of increases. That's $2,353 per household.

Local governments and schools are already facing serious revenue shortages and budget deficits. Should they be gambling with your tax dollars on new multi-million dollar speculative ventures?
